REPORT

Space Club of SSM Institute of Engineering and Technology organized an event “STAR PARTY 2023” on 07.01.2023 to observe objects and events in the sky around 06:30 pm at paly ground of SSMIET. Mr. S. Suresh space enthusiast, Eye Vision India led the event using telescopes. Around 70 students from nearby schools, college students and faculty members participated in the event and got benefitted.

About Star Party

The idea of star parties is not new, and is said to date back at least to King George III of England, who had a passion for astronomy and mathematics. On nights when bad weather prevented the real stars and planets from being seen, his attendants are said to have hung painted lanterns in the trees around the palace for the king and his guests to spot with their telescopes

A star party is a group of amateur astronomers whose purpose is to observe objects and events in the sky. A local star party may be a one-night-only event, but larger events he lasts for a week or longer, attracting hundreds, or even thousands, of attendees. Many astronomy clubs hold monthly star parties during the warmer months. Large regional star parties are held each year and are an important part of the amateur astronomy hobby. A naturally dark location away from light pollution is typical. Participants bring telescopes and binoculars of various types and sizes and spend the night observing celestial bodies such as planets, comets, fixed stars, and deep celestial bodies. Astrophotography and CCD photography are also very popular. Lectures, meet-and-greets, home-made telescope displays, contests, tours, raffles, and similar activities are common at large star parties. Vendors selling various astronomical instruments may also participate. Like any hobby gathering, any Star Party will have many fellowships and discussions of various aspects of a hobby.
